Artists Open Shop Here

A group of local artists and craftsmen just opened a decorating accents shop called "Ul-Tomato" located at 1808 W. Foothill Blvd., Upland. Barbara A. Cohen of Upland manages the unusual shop.

Council Approves Two New Developments

Two new developments were unanimously approved by Upland Council this week and two more were approved with "dissenting" votes. The council also ruled on a 3-2 vote (Councilman Harold Bailin and John McCarthy dissenting), to go against the Planning Commission's wishes and place the 120-day moratorium on environmental impact reports.

Without much discussion this time the council voted 3-1 (with Councilman George Gibson opposing), to approve a conditional use permit with 13 conditions stipulated by the Planning Department for a Jojos Restaurant to be built on the south side of 7th St., east of Euclid Ave., between the on and off ramps on the San Bernardino Freeway. Gibson felt the restaurant would create traffic conjection unless 7th street was widened. Gibson also was the only "no" vote on council approval for another conditional use permit by Upland resident Linda Belle Mielke to establish a family-type restaurant called "The Souper" on the southeast corner of First Ave., and "D" St. Ms. Mielke and her husband and seven well-behaved children were in the audience to tell about the family restaurant they hope to operate together. Gibson didn't feel it was acceptable to have the family live in the commercially-zoned area and also felt that the old building was too delapidated to be successfully renovated into a restaurant.

Unanimous approval was given to develop an Alphy's restaurant and coffee shop in the Upland Square shopping center located at the northwest corner of Foothill Blvd. and San Antonio Ave. Approval was also granted for a zone change and conditional use permit for a 1.8 acre expansion of the Pomona Valley Miniature Golf Center, 1500 W. Seventh St. The proposed expansion will add a baseball batting cage, trampo-line, game room, offices and a caretaker's residence to the complex owned by John and James Huish of El Cajon.

City Attorney Donald Maroney informed the Council that the city could disregard the 120-day moratorium on required environmental impact reports if they thought the reports were "desirable and beneficial." Planning Director Rod Anderson said the reports serve a good purpose in catching the "odd case" which does effect the environment and they they also involve the general public. Gibson and Councilman Max Hawkins felt the time and effort required in preparing the reports was "completely Ambulance rate hikes from $30.00 to $35.00 on response call and increased charges from $1.25 to $1.50 per mile were approved. City Manager Elwin "Pinky" Alder reported that the cities of Ontario and Montclair all recommended approval of the increased rate charge. Walt Schaefer of Shaefer Ambulance Service explained that the increases were necessary because of increased training requirements.

Jerry Leggett, executive director of the Upland Housing Authority, was representing San Bernardino County Planning Department in a presentation of a resolution for an experimental housing allowance program to be funded by Housing and Urban Development, the County of San Bernardino and the Housing Authority of Upland. The resolution, which was passed by the Housing Authority last week, will provide direct rental subsidies to low income families to enable them to select privately owned dwelling units for the following three years. The Council agreed to have the city attorney prepare a formal resolution approving the experimental five year program. Alder presented a report on the truck route in Upland to the Council.

HEATED DEBATE EXPECTED

'Influence' Hearing Slated

By PATRICIA REID

By next Wednesday, Dec. 27 when Ontario's bid is considered again, exactly three months will have passed (Sept. 27 - Dec. 27) since the Local Agency Forma-tion Commission (LAFC) postponed making a final decision on Ontario's controversial "zone of influence request. Ontario wants to annex south Cucamonga's growing industrial area between Fourth St. (San Bernardino Ave.) and Eight St. east as far as Etiwanda Ave.

In that time span discussions and arguments about the future of the Alta Loma, Cucamonga, Etiwanda unincorporated area have raged on and on. The issue prompted the county Board of Supervisors to create a new gov-ernmental body to "speak" for the tri-community residents -the Municipal Advisory Council (MAC). Also the LAFC - sponsored study committee comprised of representatives from Ontario, Upland and the three communities and other concerned individuals has met regularly to discuss boundary questions and to work with statistical data pertinent to the area under question.

Last Wednesday during the last LAFC study committee meeting in county offices comprehensive reports were submitted to LAFC Executive Officer Robert B. Rigney. At the start, Rigney hoped he'd end up with one overall report from the study committee with which members concurred. but throughout the meetings it's been quite obvious that there's no general agreement about the future fate of the tri-community area which has a combined population of approximately 19,000 people and contains approximately 35.9 square miles of land area.)

Rigney said, "The reports are so radically different that each community will present its own report separately to the commissioners." Rigney will also prepare a separate LAFC report on Ontario's sphere of influence bid for the area to the presented to the commissioners next Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Board of Supervisors chambers. He anticipated that Ontario would speak first, followed by Upland and then the tri-community area. Delegates at last Wednesday's meeting were told that Fontana has also recently submitted a request for a zone of influence which includes Kaiser Steel Corp. and Edison Company's Etiwanda plant and that they'll make a presentation at the hearing as will representatives from Kaiser Steel and Edison Co. Rigney also predicted that the new board would take the reports under advisement and probably continue the matter.

Ontario submitted a 10-page report titled, "Report to LAFC regarding Municipal Services Provided by Ontario to its Residents and Property Owners" and also a three page letter from City Manager Ken Hunter stating reasons justifying the request for an enlarged sphere of

Peters said the pines are raised in pots from seedlings and are eventually planted in the Farming: A Family Venture

By PATRICIA REID

"Christmas tree farming is a very competitive business," said Dan Peters, manager of Reindeer Christmas Tree Farm located at 7422 N. Archibald Ave., in Cucamonga.

Peters is an English teacher at Alta Loma High School and also teaches speech at Chaffey College. During the Christmas holidays, his time and energy is spent running the Christmas Tree Farm. The Peters family took over the farm two years ago when they moved to Cucamonga from Pomona. Previously the farm was owned by Clea Oertle for some six years. "The whole family works at the tree farming business," Peters said.

SUPERINTENDENT'S PAY:

how she learned this technique she replied, "I just jumped into it." Now she "contracts out" to do flocking for other tree farms in the area.

Reindeer Tree Farm grows Monterey Pines and has them in all shapes and sizes. Peters said they only sell about one third of the total number of trees each year so that small ones can grow to a desired size next season. It takes from four to five years for a tree to reach maturity.

Ms. Peters said fresh trees grown on farms are known to last until Easter indoors! (and reportedly some families keep trees up that long!) Cut trees in lots are cut as early as August and put into quick freeze, she

The Farm opened to the buying public the weekend before Thanksgiving so prospective buyers could come take a critical look and "tag theirs." Friday, Nov. 17 was "Previous Customers Day" to get their first choice of the trees. Ms. Peters said reservation sales were their biggest business. She said those who tagged trees picked them up the weekend of Dec. 16 in time to take them inside for Christmas decorating. The farm stopped taking reservations after the first two weeks and just handles "cash and carry" sales now. They officially close down Dec. 23 but it's not unheard of to sell a tree on Dec. 24 if someone's really desperate and we have any extra trees Ms. Peters explained. When asked how people usually Christmas tree shop Ms. Peters said "Oh it's always a family de-cision" -- We have lots of live animals here to entertain the animals here to entertain the kids and we give out candy canes which they love." (animals include horses, sheep, calves, bulls, geese, chickens, rabbits, and peacocks.) Lots of families bring along the family pet dog or cat too -- "we request they keep animals on leashes," she said. Dave Peters does most of the tree-sawing with a hand saw.

'New' Education-Conditioning Children For Life

The Christmas presents under Cynthia and John Freymueller's tree are wrapped in old news-papers. "We call it our ecol-ogy wrapping," Ms. Cynthia Freymueller said. "We've been doing this for three Christmases now. I know we're going against the great American tradition of never using anything over. But by not wasting paper at Christmastime, we think we might be saving a tree somewhere.

The Freymuellers and their three children live in Alta Loma. "In a house which is definitely family-oriented," according to Ms. Freymueller. John Freymueller is a teacher at Alta Loma High School. His wife helps run a local coop nursery school. Both are liberal, progressive educa-tors. People who believe in 'now.' More than a year ago, Ms. Freymueller and a friend, Ms.

Kalo Piquet, came up with the idea of a modern coop nursery school. "This wasn't to be just a place where mothers dropped their children to get rid of them for a day," Ms. Freymueller in sisted. "This was to be a school with a 'philosophy'." She continued, "I was an education matinued, "I was an education think," jor in school, and Kalo, I think, majored in journalism. Anyway, we both had children we'd taken to nursery schools in other areas, and we weren't satisfied with the results. With our combined backgrounds -- me teaching and Kalo promoting -- we decided to give our nursery school idea a try. The school, called the Cucamonga Coop, opened in Septem-ber in the basement of the Cucamonga Methodist Church.

"We have two 2-day sessions, Ms. Freymueller said. "At first, we were worried about response. Now we've got a waiting list!" Ms. Freymueller then explained why the Cucamonga Coop is an unusual nursery school. "The word 'coop' derives from 'cooperation'," she said. "And cooperation is our motto. At the school, we always have one teacher - director who is in charge. At the same time, our mothers work on a rotating basis. On the average, each child's mother works in the school two days a month.

"We got the idea of a coop from Montclair," she continued. 'I had some experience with a coop there, and I was impressed with the way parent participa-tion worked. Having the mothers in the classroom increases understanding between parents and teachers. It's a 'look -- we're all friends' approach.

Concerning the school's basic philosophy, Ms. Freymueller remarked Our approach is to encourage children to respect and like the educational process. We believe that the formative years -- one through six -- are very important. During this period, a child forms his basic personality, his intelligent quota and his attitude toward life. Natuarlly environment is of key importance. "Probably the most important thing in the educational process is a child's attitude," Ms. Frey-mueller said. "Even learning mueller said. itself is secondary to this. A positive attitude and a respect for one's teacher is the most important beginning step in education. At the coop, we try to broaden a child's basic foundation. We want him to think that learning and working toward goals can be fun."

Ms. Freymueller said the children at the coop range in age from two years, nine months to school age -- which would be, roughly, six years. Each child sets his own pace, and works at

"We don't put a lot of emphasis on the 'I.Q.', or test for intelligence quota," Ms. Frey-intelligence quota, "An I.Q." test can be used to verify at child's daily achievement -sometimes. But such a test usually has a 20 point leeway. In general, a child who consistently scores an average of 130, on an I.Q. test can be called 'gifted'. Still 'gifted' is a dangerous word to use. Too much pressure's been put upon children because of their I.Q. test scores. If they've scored in the high range, too much is expected of them. The converse, is true if they've scored poorly.

Class Explores 'Mystique'

Do women have more anxieties about achieving success than men? Do all females equate intellectual accomplishment with loss of femininity? The extent and importance of sex difference in women and the factors that determine their physical and social makeup will be examined in a UCLA Extension course beginning

Jan. 3 at UCLA.

"Psychology of Women," meets from 7-10 p.m. on 12 Wednesdays in Bunche Hall, The course focuses on the sex role developments and conflicts that confront the woman in today's rapidly changing culture. "The ultimate logic of the sexual revolution requires women to stand equal to the male body in every respect," observes Nor-man Mailer, who goes on to ask: "How could this equality prevail if women in competition with the other sex should have to cry quits every now and again for months of pregnancy plus years of uneasy accommodation between their career and their child?

Stereotypes and their influence on the role of women will be one of the topics covered by the instructor, Dr. Anstiss Mclver, associate research psychologist at UCLA. Fee for the course is Associates in Sept. 1969 titled "Economic Analysis of Possible Upland Annexation. The tricommunity area financed an update of the 1965 Gold-Thompson "Incorporation Feasibility Report" done by Urban As-sociates of Claremont, In addition the local "Rig-ney Committee" in the tri-communities presented a study of reasons why the boundaries should remain as designated by the Board of Supervisors for MAC. Letters were presented by representatives of Cucamonga County Water District, Cucamonga and Alta Loma Fire Chiefs.

Upland wants to annex all three communities including the industrial section sought by Ontario. Their report states that Upland's tax rate would drop to a rate not much greater than the communities now pay for municipal type services. It was indicated they would use MAC as an advisor and probably elect a community representative to the Council.

In answer to a question about annexing the tricommunity without indus-try, Upland's assistant city manager Lee Travers said without Edison Co.'s plant of nearly $23 million assessed value they might not want the area but would be willing to restudy the question.

Hunter of Ontario said in a letter that Ontario needs the industrial area to its northeast to square off its boundaries and add to the efficiency of its police, fire and other protective services.

FOOD

What Are Health Foods?

If you want to start a lively conversation, mention the subject health foods. You are sure to get a reaction as everyone will have an opinion, either positive or negative.

In today's era we are witnessing a curious phenomenon regarding nutrition. I don't know what your thoughts are but we have to admit the real concern for good nutrition is apparently bringing the public back to better eating habits. Consumers are more concerned about the quality of food they are putting in their shopping carts. We re-fer to this as Diet Ecology. Just a few years ago we couldn't have given away black strap molasses, granola cereal or un-bleached flour. Who would have thought Grandma's favorite ingredients would reappear on the supermarket shelf and become favorites in our pantry. What are health foods?

Most foods are health foods .-it is the combination and variety of food in your daily menu planning that tells the total nutrition story. Most supermarkets have from 10,000 to 15,000 products from which to choose, The consumer makes the decision on what items will be placed in the shopping cart and how they will be used in preparing family meals. There is no doubt about it, our pattern of living has changed but the Basic Four is "still in". The "swing" with the new trend means including the Basic Four in your daily menu planning. Bread And Cereal Group --

The bread and cereal group supplies B vitamins for good appetites, digestion, steady nerves and general well being. Foods which supply these nutrients are made from grains. A serving may be one slice of bread, one ounce dry cereal, one-half to three-fourths cup cooked cereal, cornmeal, rice, macaroni or noodles. In Grandma's day she served her family a homemade

3 cups quick-cooking rolled

I cup wheat germ

1/4 cup sesame seeds

3/4 cup diced dates 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

Mix dry ingredients in large bowl. Add honey, oil and va-nilla; mix thoroughly. Spread on two large baking pans. Eake in a 300 F, oven for 30 minutes. Stir every 10 minutes. Cool and store in air tight containers. Serve as a presweetened cold cereal with milk or as a snack. Makes 7 cups. MEAT GROUP--Meat is our primary source of projein, the chief tissue builder in our body the basic substance of every cell. However, there are other excellent protein substitutes . . . cheese, poultry, eggs, dried beans and peas, peanut butter and nuts. Eat two servings from this group daily. A serving is. tow to three ounces of meat, poultry or fish, two eggs, one

Beef Rib Roast--A Dazzler

Dazzle the family and guests with a California beef favorite-cross rib roast. This traditional entree lends itself to minie mal preparation time for the hostess and robust fare for all. PERFECT CROSS RIB ROAST . 5 pounds rolled rib beef roast Salt and pepper

Sprinkle beef with salt and pepper. Insert meat thermometer into center of roast. Let beef stand at room temperature 20 to 30 minutes. Pre-heat oven to 375 (moderately hot). Place roast on rack in shallow open pan. Roast in oven one hour. Turn off heat. Do not open oven-door for one hour. Very Important.

During resting period the beef continues to cook slowly and evenly distributes heat throughout the beef. Turn oven regulator to 300. Allow roast to reheat 30 to 40 minutes until beef has reached desired internal temperature. Beef will be pink and juicy all the way through when thermometer registers 130 . Should you desire beef cooked very rare, remove from oven a few minutes sooner. If you prefer well done beef, continue cooking until it is just the way you like it.
ONION TARTS

5 cups sliced onion 1/3 cup butter 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt

Dash white pepper 6 unbaked (3-inch) pastry shells

Saute onion very slowly in butter until soft and golden, but not browned. Remove from heat. Stir in salt and pepper. Spoon into pastry shells. Bake in hot oven (425) about 15 to 20 minutes until pastry is browned. Serve warm. Makes 6 servings.

Health Foods

cup dried cooked beans, peas or lentils or four tablespoons peanut butter. An excellent high protein snack is beef jerky which may be purchased in your local food market. However, we suggest letting your children have the fun of making beef jerky for their school lunches or after school snacks.

OVEN - DRIED BEEF' JERKY 1 flank steak (about 1 1/2 lbs.) 1/3 cup soy sauce

1 tablespoon Worcestershire

1/2 teaspoon liquid smoke 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt 1/2 teaspoon lemon pepper

Trim off all visible fat from meat (it becomes rancid quick-ly). Cut flank steak lengthwise with grain into long thin strips, nor more than 1/4 inch thick. Combine remaining ingredients. Pour over beef strips. Let stand 1 hour, or cover and refrigerate overnight. (Meat will absorb most of the liquid). Arrange strips of meat close together, but not overlapping on cake racks set in shallow baking pans. Bake in a VERY SLOW oven (150° to 175° F.) 11-12 hours. Store at room temperature in air tight container. If all fat has been removed beef jerky will keep indefinitely.

VEGETABLES AND FRUIT--Vegetables and fruits are abundantly hight in vitamins, particularly A and C but equally low in calories. Introduce new vegetables weekly and dress up the family favorites. For a new twist serve Green Beans with Parmesan Pumpkin Seeds.

Let us pray that strength and courage abundant be given to all who work for a world of reason and understanding; that the good that lies in every man's heart may day by day be magnified; that men will come to see more clearly not that which divides them, but that which unites them; that each hour may bring us closer to a final victory, not of nation over nation, but of man over his own evils and weaknesses; that the true spirit of this Christmas Season - its joy, its beauty, its hope, and above all its abiding faith - may live among us; that the blessings of peace be ours — the peace to build and grow, to live in harmony and sympathy with others, and to plan for the future

Delight Of Freeway Driving

American folklore certainly has to include the legend of the California freeways.

Just speak the words and images of chaos and madness flick across the minds of all. Most of what they've heard is true:

The black and white hordes of the Highway Patrol, the nausea-ting fumes of smoke and smog, the thundering columns of steel machines - it's all real enough. Still. . . I like the freeways.

In spite of the madness, the speed excites me: The solitude frees

That hour each day is the only time I can be myself, to do only what I want to do without feeling guilty.

For a time, I can happily dismiss the endless number of tiresome tasks awaiting me at home. When I colse the windows, I magically fall into a world all my own. What I do then is entirely whimsical.

Mainly, I think--about people, about places, about trivia, mostly about me.

The music on the radio keeps me company. Because I refuse to lat disc jockey prattle intrude upon my silent speech. I'll search for music at any cost. Unconsciously I'll button-push to my heart's delight. Sometimes I play the songs at deafening volumes, other times I must strain to hear them.

I'll sing off-key without fear of social censure. I'll hum. I'll smile, without having to explain why, and it's great.

Oriental Rug Rolled Out At UCLA Extension Class

Recently a Van Gogh painting sold for over a million dollars, but an Oriental rug of similar age and quality can be purchased for less than $5,000, according to Dr. John M. Douglass, a physician and authority on the descendant of the fabled magic carpet.

Dr. Douglass believes the Oriental rug is "the highest expression of abstract art that has yet been discovered by the art enthusiast.' Although rugs tripled in price bits were held in the United States and illustrated catalogues were published, their value is still extremely low when com-pared to that of other art forms.

In the past 14 years, antique rugs (100 years or older) have been extensively exported from the United States because Europeans are willing to pay from three to five times more than American collectors. There are some 200 "very good" and 5,000 "lesser" collectors in the United States. Douglass predicts that some rugs now selling for under $2,000 will, in the next ten to twenty years be worth $50,000 or

AL Wrestlers Down S. Dimas

Alta Loma scored a decisive victory Tuesday over San Dimas High School, 57-9. The victory was the fifth straight for unbeaten Alta Loma in dual meet competition.

San Dimas picked up its nine points when Alta Loma's Joe Colombero was pinned in the 98 pound class and Steve Hargrave lost a 9-0 decison at 115 pounds. Both boys were unbeaten up to that point.

The Braves captured the remaining 11 matches, three on decisions by Mike Falabella (123 pounds), Bruce Bell (157) and Bill

Area Athletes Up For '72 Helms Award

Sixteen athletes, including four Olympic participants, have been nominated for 1972 United Savings Helms Athletic Foundation Southern California Athlete of the Year. The announcement was made earlier this week by W. B. Schroeder, managing director of the foundation.

The United Savings Helms Athlete of the Year Award is presented annually to an outstanding sports participant who either lives in Southern California or performs in the area. Last year's winner was USC swimming star Frank Heckl.

Nominees include Olympic swimmers Shirley Babashoff and Sandra Neilsen; San Diego Padre first baseman Nate Colbert; Catalina Channel swimmer Lynge Cox; Olympic diver Micki King; Joe O'Brien, veteran harness racing driver; Los Angeles Ram tackle Merlin Olsen; USC football stars Mike Rae and Anthony Davis; John Hadl, San Diego Charger quarterback; pitchers Nolan Ryan of the Angels and Don Sutton of the Dodgers; tennis champ Stan Smith; Olympic long jump champion Randy Williams; and basketball stars Jerry West of the Lakers and Bill Walton of UCLA.

The award winner will be selected by the Southern California Board of Athletics, composed of sports writers and sports broadcasters.

Upland's Hyde Wins National Recognition

Howard Hyde, of Upland, re-corded the second best time nationally in the 50M Backstroke event for boys 11 and 12 while competing in the National AAU Junior Olympics program. A time of 32.3 in the event gave him national recognigion as a top competitor from a field of millions across the country.

Under National spon-sorship of Chevrolet Motor Division, AAU Junior Olympics involves millions of youngsters in 13

Past Junior Olympics competitors included Mark Spitz, Ms. Debbie Meyer and Don Schollander, all gold medal winners in past Olympiads.

'The high level of these performances emphasizes crucial role AAU Junior Olympics plays in sports development," said Rob-ert D. Lund, General Sales Manager, Chevrolet Motor Division. In addition to national publicity given to these athletes as a result of their performances, each has been awarded a National AAU Junior Olympic Certificate, commending them, by Jack Kelly, president of the AAU.

HOLIDAY BACKACHES

The holidays are almost here hat time of the year when mothr is busy moving furniture to or is busy moving turniture to make space for the Christmas tree, dad is busy hanging the outside lights and the kids are home from school. During the holidays, more accidents are caused in the home resulting in back injuries than any other place. A wrong twist, an im-proper lift or a fall from a ladder can put you in bed with a painful back injury. Last year alone, there were more accidents involving back injuries resulting from spills on snow covered slopes. Let's use a little bit more caution this Christmas health, happiness and holidays.
If you should suffer a holiday backache, go see a good Chiro-practor. He may not look like Santa Claus, but he may give you the best present this year, happy and healthier life, free rom agonizing beak pains.

Dance Festival Set This Month, Next

A Winter Festival of Dance Arts, featuring performances by students, faculty and professional groups, has been set for the last week in December and the first week in January by the California State University, Fullerton dance department.

The festival, which will include premieres of several new works, plus several innovations that the dance department is initiating, will be held in the Uni-versity's Little Theater. All performances are at 8 p.m.

Reservations for all performances in the festival may be made by calling the theater box office between noon and 4 p.m. on weekdays, or an hour and a half before each performance. The telephone number is 870-3371

The festival begins with a performance of the Matti Lascoe Dance Company of Irvine on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 29 and 30.
Two new works, "Exit" and "Synaptic Junction," will be featured, along with "Jubilatore," a work the company performed at Cal State this fall. Tickets for this portion of the festival, which features modern dance, will be available at the Kathryn Lowe School of Dance in Fullerton and the Capezio Dance Supply in Town and Country, Orange, as well as at the theater box office. Tickets also will be sold at the door.

On Jan. 4, 5 and 6, "Dance '73" performances of works by performances of works by Cal State Fullerton students and faculty will be featured. The premiere of a new piece by Linda V. Hatch, a member of the dance department faculty, accompanied by music composed by Lloyd Rodgers, assistant pro-fessor of music at Cal State, is included.

This protion of the dance festival will also see the introduction of live music accompaniement, with commissioned works composed and performed by the university's music faculty and students. Dr. Frank W. Hatch, chairman of the dance department, has indicated that live accompaniment will be a standard feature of dance productions at the university.
Closing out the festival on Jan.

7 will be the world premiere of a jazz dance work, "Jazz Story," performed by the William Couser Jazz Dance Theater of Los Angeles. The performance of this work, which de-picts the history of jazz through music, song and dance, will include original music composed and conducted by Eugene A. Corporon, lecturer in music and conductor of the University Jazz Ensemble.

Also included in the Couser performance will be the world premiere of an abstract jazz montage.

The winter festival is the second of several major productions

Mail Orders For 'Sleuth' Being Accepted

"Sleuth," the long-running, much-applauded stage hit of New York and London, is a mystery plan but Jay Doty, Concert Manager at Bridges Auditorium, at The Claremont Colleges, announces there's no mystery about getting tickets to its performance

All one has to do is write in for them with a remittance, he says. Mail orders, he states, are now being received

Film Classics Viewed Here

Six classic films remain in the Community Services Film-Discussion Series for this Fall semester. The movies are shown in the Social Science Center Lecture Hall (26B-101) on Thursday evenings at 7:30 p.m.

Following each film a discussion will be held on the theme, the cast, the author's intent, and other aspects of the movie. Moderated by Patrick Allaway, MSAC instructor of English and cinematography, the discussions are open to the general public, participation from the audience is welcomed and urged.

Films and times are -- Whistle Down the Wind, Dec. 7; Rashomon, Dec. 14; The Wild Bunch, Jan. 4; Shop on Main Street, Jan.

In view of "Sleuth" having been a sell-out hit in New York ever since it opened there in November 1970 (it's still running, with no end in sight), the key word about successfully obrain-ing tickets is "now" -- or mighty soon, anyhow.

"Sleuth" is being brought here with the creden-tials of a long Broadway run and an even longer run still continuing in London and having won the Tony Award as the best play of its first New York season, Its author, Anthony Shaffer, was awarded an Edgar (for Edgar Allen Poe) by the Mystery Writers of America for the best mystery story of the year in play, book, film or story form.

In addition to being a pulse-raiser, it's an intellect-teaser, both be-cause of its baffling twists of plot and because of its polished, swift bandinage.

This stage success is both a mystery and parody in one, mocking the detective stories yet gaily using their devices to hold audiences in suspense.

A good many suavely bantering lines fall to the part to be played here by George Rose, the Englishbred actor in film "A New Leaf" with Walter Mattplayed by David Haviland, and others in the cast scoring points and counterpoints are Herbert Bott, Frank Sturtevant and Martin K. Pagliaro.

Warren Crane is the director who has blended the urbane play's laughter, wit and puzzlements and Martin Ritman has designed the lighting and the appropriate-to-melodrama setting of a grand high - ceilinged, stone-walled living room in a large English country mansion. "Sleuth" is country mansion. 'Sleuth' is being brought to Bridges Auditorium as part of a coast-tocoast tour by the New York producers who also presented the still-current Broadway show. Helen Bonfils, Morton Gottlieb and Michael White.

THE ARTS

Life: 'The Last Of The Dinosaurs'

Time Inc., finally considered the alternative last week -- and killed Life, the glamor magazine of the Luce publish-ing empire, which once was read by one of every five American men, women and children.

Andrew Heiskell, chairman of the Time Inc. board, diagnosed Life's ailment as the same one that killed Look two years ago and the Saturday Evening Fost before that, "Life was published at very substantial deficits in 1969 and 1970 and smaller deficits in 1971 and 1972, and as our major projections took shape, however, they showed a resumption of heavy losses . . ." Life tried several ways to cut costs. First it cut circulation, after it had written most of the rules for attracting subscribers regardless of cost, dropping from 8 million in 1970 to 5 million at its death. Two years ago it shut down its foreign edicions, and last year lopped off 90 jobs. At the end, the staff numbered 450. More recently, Life tried to re-create the ambience of its glory years, the 1940s and early 1950s, when 19 cents of every dollar spent on U.S. magazines went to Life. Its editors cut back text for photographs, and even pulled old photographs and layouts from Ats files to show what Life looked like 'way back when.

None of it worked. Life's fortunes continued to sag, and rumors of its death circulated through the ever-more-anemic world of the New York City publishing industry. When Time Inc. killed it, many were saddened, but no one was surprised.

* Carl Mydans, one of the magazine's most celebrated photographers, was not surprised either. He was wistful. "This marks the end of the pho-tojournalism as we know he said.

It was something else too, further evidence of the decline of New York City as the heart and head of the publishing industry. Though Life and Look, creatures in the Manhattan publishing jungle couldn't make it, some new magazines have. What they have in common is a much more specialized audience. Some, like Playboy (Chicago) and Psychology Today (San Francisco), have offices far from the old jungle.

The stock of Time Inc. jumped more than five points on the New York Stock Exchange, clear evidence that investors were taking Time's executives company's remaining magazines -- Time, Fortune, Sports Illustrated and the new Money -- were going well and would continue to do so.

Life had not done well for some time. Advertising had dwindled steadily over the past half decade, and Heiskell and Hedley Donovan, the editor-in-chief, said they had enforced economies, "but the cost pressures and the competitive pressures kept building up, and we have been run-ning out of economies."

The crushing blow was the prospect of postal rates rising 170 percent over the next five years. 'It should be remembered," they said, "that the (Nixon) Administration exempted the Postal Service, but not the press. from price controls, which made Life's problems even more difficult." The executives, like men and women who worked for them, were more in the mood for a wake than a clinical obituary when they gathered to hear the death notice.

Bottles of Scotch came out of desks, and the tinkle of ice cubes covered the sounds of catching throats.

Life, like no other magazine of the time, captured the atten-tion of Americans in a way that television never has. Some of Life's photographs became snapshots of history -- Bob Capa's photograph of a Spanish soldier, arms akimbo, in the brutal in-stant of his death; a Chinese photographer named Newsreel Wong took a photograph of an abandoned child, wailing beside the body of his mother in the bombed-out Shanghai rail yards and it became the instant identification of Chinese suffering.

Henry A Luce started Life in 1936, when Time, his first child, was 13 years old. By one account, Life was almost an accident. Clare Booth Luce, his wife, was looking for a way to gain influence in his empire and encouraged him to look at the new techniques of photojournalism.

"I really don't want more magazines," he was reported to have told her, "but if it pleases you we'll go ahead." He paid $85,000 for a human marazine alled for a humor magazine called Life, just to get the rights to the name, and ordered 250,000 copies

Ms. Luce lost a fight with Time Inc-, executives who wanted to keep her away from any say in the magazine; her only connection with it was as a part-time combat correspondent during World War II. But her advice to Luce was good; Life was a runaway success from its first issue. "Life," said Luce later, "transformed Time Inc. from a big little business into a little big business.'

Its first interests were bathing beauties, scandal, strippers and titillation. One of its first issues told women readers "How to Undress Before Your Husband." When the wife of an assistant Secretary of State revealed that she had had two bathtubs installed so she and her husband could converse while bathing, Life tried to get illustrations. "Rear view will do," the photographers were told. Later, Life's editors preferred more sober topics, such as "The Epic of Man" and "The Miracle of Greece."

Luce saw Life as a further vehicle to power and influence.
"Time is for the man who wants to be well-informed." Luce said, "and Life would help mankind see and be instructed." His critics demurred; former Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, whom Life flayed regularly during the troubles at Little Rock High School in the 1950s, once said Time was "the magazine for people who can't think and Life is the magazine for people who can't read.

At the end, fighting for sur-vival, Life turned to muckraking -- and occasionally to stumbling. A final embarrassment was its acceptance at face value of Clifford Irving's faked biography of Howard Hughes, when others were beginning to doubt. Life agreed to pay $250,000 for rights to publish it, and backed away only when irving was exposed as a hoaxer.

At the end, one of Life's own writers summed up the magazine's obituary. 'It was well known that the patient has been very sick,' said Tommy Thompson, a Life writer for 12 years, 'and it is enormously said We "and it is enormously sad. We were the last dinosaur."

-- Wesley Pruden Jr.

'Healthy Men Are Creative'

Are all people cre-ative? Abraham Maslow, of the foremost spokesmen of the humanistic psychologies said that the concept of creativeness and the concept of the healthy, fully human person are coming closer and closer together and perhaps may turn out to be the same thing.

The phenomenon of creativity and the condi-tions that foster and inhibit it will be explored in a UCLA Extension course, "Psychology of Creativity," beginning from 7-10 p.m. Jan. 4 on twelve Thursdays in the Social Welfare Building at UCLA. Fear and weakness make creativeness less likely. The creative atrequires both courage and strength and casts out fear. Becoming more couragous makes it easier to let oneself be attracted by mystery, the unusual and the unexpected. It implies a kind of trust in oneself and the world.

Creating tends to be the act of the whole man. It is the capacity to adapt to a situation more perfectly and change flexibly as the situation changes. A painter continuously adapts himself to the demands of his developing painting just as a wrestler adapts himself to his opponent. Therefore full spontaneity is a guarantee of honest expression. Understanding creativity is to understand what Hokusai meant when he said, "If you want to draw a bird, you must become a

Psychotherapy, where it is good, can be counted on to enhance the creativity of a person. The course will examine the relationship of creativity to psychosis, neurosis and normal adjustment, as well as the roles of inspiration and persistance, intelligence, knowledge and skill, fantasy and feeling. It is a clear illustration of how the artist may spend half a lifetime learning his tools, skills and materials before finally becoming ready for a full expression of what he

The instructor, Dr. Harvey Mindess, clinical psychologist, will include objective psychological studies and subjective accounts of artists, writers, composers, scientists and philosophers.

Fee for the course is $60, and four units of credit in psychology can be earned.

Deaths May Be Fewer

As Californians finish up the final week before Christmas, there remains a chance that the state's motorists will record fewer traffic deaths than had been predicted for the closing weeks of 1972, according to the Insurance Information In-

In early November, the Institute had predicted that roughly 700 Califor-nians would die on the state's highways between Halloween and Christ-mas, and at that time the Institute issued a plea that motorists "Give a Life for Christmas" by displaying care and consideration in their driving.

Unfortunately, says the Institute, it appears as Christmas draws near that its original prediction of 700 deaths probably will be close to the mark, although it held out hope the fatality record of the past few weeks would show a downturn. Professional figures from the California Highway Patrol indicate that 415 Californians died in traffic during November. The figures are subject to change, but still are a good yardstick of the full extent of November's highway tragedy, the Institute said.

Pointing out that the fatality rate was nearly 14 deaths a day, or almost 100 each week, the Institute said that if traffic deaths continued at the same pace in the three weeks of December before Christmas, the death tool will too the 700 mark, "Altough fatality figures for the first weeks available," the Institute "it appears likely that the death toll will be close to, or slightly above what was expected."

The Institute pointed out that if the death rate is maintained, about an-other 100 Californians will die in traffic in the days left before Christ-

'Jolly Hour' Sobers Drivers

Two drivers dead, one seriously injured, All had been drinking.

Typical holiday accidents? Not really.

A trio of experienced Pomona Valley volunteers had agreed to participate in a highly controlled experiment to demonstrate the deadly effects of mixing drinking with driving.

Each participant downed three of his favorite alcoholic concoctions at a "jolly hour" before climbing behind the wheel of a stationary simulator

The drivers were confronted by specially filmed traffic situations

After an hour the drivers' reaction time had deteriorated sharply and the average driving performance, as measured by a 'drivotrainer' system, had plummeted 50 percent. In fact, if these drivers had met on the road the situations they met in the simulator -- two

"After a careful check of passenger activity since the beginning of the month, plus a projection of the load factors the airlines will experience be-cause of Christmas travel, Passenger One Mil-lion will make his or her appearance during the morning hours next Thursday," Hamilton

He explained the calculations were based on a daily count provided by the airlines, a comparison of figures between December of 1971 and this year, conversa-tions and estimates of capacity activity during Christmas week and air-

Christmas week and airline scheduling.

"We used the best information available to make our calculations as precise as possible," he said, "and unless something dramatic happens, such as a large scale alsuch as a large scale al-ternate, we will be honoring Passenger One Mil-lion next week."

Appropriate ceremo ies are being arranged to make the one millionth passenger remember the big day, according to Hamilton, with participa-tion of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, the Friends of Ontario International Airport Association, the airlines and aviation businesses on the field and officials of the cities of Ontario and Los Angeles.

Stephen C. Bilheimer, president of the Los Angeles Board of Airport Commissioners; Ontario Mayor Howard J. Snider; Clifton A. Farmers Nix Snow

The dream of a white Christmas has come early to much of California with the surprised agricultural areas wishing for the song only -- not the real thing. It is difficult to accurately assess weather damage to crops, but early indications are that our large crop of navel oranges has been severely damaged as have other crops nursery stock and some orchards and vineyards.

Frost and even snow in agricultural areas during the holiday season points up one of the basic differences between California agriculture and the agriculture of other states.
While most of the great agricultural states go into a form of hibernation with the first snows of the winter, agriculture in Cali-fornia is a year-round op-eration with farmers harvesting crops somewhere in the state every day, and snow or frost is not very welcome.
